Investment Focus

Now seems the time for property investors who stood back over the last two years to re-enter the market.

Unlike 2007/08 Investors risk is lessened in a cycle when rental income goes close to covering mortgage interest costs. According to Gavin Hegney of Hegney Property Group, in such a period where cost of purchase is low and steady growth is maintained, any capital growth for investors becomes profit.

According to REIWA median rents in Perth remained steady during the last quarter at $360 per week. The vacancy rate has however stretched out to 3.5%.

Christine Carey, our Senior Property Manager, reports that properties are now taking 2-3 weeks to secure quality tenants. This is considerably longer than this time last year.

Market Update

The Perth property market appears to have returned to a more traditional or normal market with some 12,000 properties on the market as opposed to the $18,000 at this time last year. Well priced properties under $800,000 are selling quickly and most agencies are reporting a shortage of good stock.

According to REIWA median sales price grew by 4.6 percent in the June quarter lifting the median house price by $20,000 to $450,000. This was largely driven by trade up buyers buying in the $500,000 - $800,000 range after having sold to a first home buyer. First Home Buyer activity was at its highest for nine years in the June quarter.

Of interest is that the medium house price in Karratha and Dampier is $835,000 and rental rates for a 4x2 is approximately $2,000 per week. These towns will benefit most from the Gorgan LNG project at Barrow Island and will contribute some $64 billion to Australia's GDP over the next 40 years.

According to BIS Shrapnel, despite these good housing figures, as well as encouraging reports on employment and consumer spending, Australian households should brace themselves for a run of bad economic news in the coming 12 months.

Interest rates can be expected to increase by as much as one percent over the next 18 months. Global Head of Economics at Westpac, Bill Evans expects another interest rate increase in November or possibly January 2010.

Economic Wrap

Like the rest of the world the Australian economy continues to experience its challenges. Nevertheless there are encouraging signs that conditions are stabilising.

The Reserve Bank of Australia (RBA) left the cash rate on hold at 3 per cent for the fourth consecutive month in August in a bid to monitor existing rate cuts and stimulus measures.

The bank also continues to express confidence in the fundamentals of the Australian economy with indications that a recovery could be underway as soon as Christmas. In its quarterly Statement on Monetary Policy in May, RBA governor Glenn Stevens said there were reasonable grounds to expect a recovery to begin by then provided global conditions continued to stabilise.

The Westpac-Melbourne Institute Leading Index, which indicates the likely pace of economic activity three to nine months into the future, also forecasts a return to positive economic growth in the not too distant future although it points to a recovery next year.

The Index rose from -6.0 to -5.1 per cent in May, its first substantial increase since April 2008 and a first step towards economic recovery.

Despite this, the Index remains deep in recession territory and a return to positive growth is unlikely before the December quarter, Westpac chief economist Bill Evans said.

On the property front the outlook is improving with Australia dwelling values recording a healthy 2.8 per cent increase in the first four months of the year, according to RP Data and Rismark.

The strong performance of the property market, particularly in contrast to countries such as the UK and USA – where prices have plummeted, highlights the solid fundamentals of Australian housing as an asset class.

With interest rates at record lows, the current market continues to represent an ideal opportunity to jump in or scale the property ladder.

New Beginnings

Alex and Deborah Gouges, pictured, are now the happy owners of 115 Landbeach Boulevard Butler. It is their second home and they are looking forward to enjoying the space and style their new home offers. It will also allow them to be closer to family.

Alex and Deborah were delighted with the great service provided by their Property Scene salesperson, Colleen Roberts. Alex says "her attention to detail and outstanding communication was a feature of her service. Nothing was too much trouble for Colleen".

"I'm sure if we sell in 4-5 years, Colleen will be our choice of agent" Alex said.

We at Property Scene pride ourselves on this very special service. Well done Colleen. We trust 115 Landbeach Boulevard has many special memories for Alex and Deborah.
